Tourism Value Chain in Thailand

Public Sectors in Tourism Industry

Private Sectors including Non-Governmental Organizations

Supported Public Sectors in Tourism Industry

The above figure presents the tourism value chain in Thailand that comprises all possible relevant stakeholders involved in the delivery of tourism products and services to consumers, both with direct and indirect connections to the tourism industry. The value chain categorizes stakeholders into three main sectors regarding their roles in the industry, namely

1. Public sectors in tourism industry are institutions that operate in relation to the Thai government structure and policy in the tourism industry. The main institution is the Ministry of Tourism and Sports (MOTS) that has the responsibilities on the development and integration of tourism and sports to enhance the economic and social growth of the country. The following institutions, operating under MOTS, are the Department of Tourism (DOT) that focuses on tourism development and operates as a government agency, and the Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) that focuses on tourism promotion and operates as a state enterprise. Meanwhile, the safety of tourists during the holiday in Thailand is also taken care of by the Tourist Police Bureau. In addition, MOTS also has two organizations that run as public organizations and focus on specific sectors in tourism, which are the Designated Areas for Sustainable Tourism Administration (DASTA) that focuses on destination (or attraction) development and the Thailand Convention and Exhibition Bureau (TCEB) that focuses on the MICE industry.

2. Private sectors including non-governmental organizations refer to those businesses involved with the operation and delivery of tourism products and services from the beginning (trip arrangement), during the holiday (in the destination), and to the end of the holiday (tourists return to their home countries). The businesses do not only deal with and provide service to customers, but they also establish a corporation in a form of associations that act as non-profit or non-governmental organizations to support each other and ensure the businesses run smoothly. This sector can be divided into eight categories regarding the nature of businesses, namely

- Tour Operators and Travel Agencies, including domestic, inbound, outbound tourism, and tour guides
- Transportations, including airplane, railway, bus and van, boat, taxi, car, and sky train and metro
- Accommodations, including hotels, resorts, hostels, homestays, guesthouses, and apartments
- Food & Beverage, including restaurants, food stalls, cafes, and bars and night clubs
- Recreation and Entertainment, including parks and zoos, shows and festivals, spa and beauty, medical and wellness, and leisure sports
- Shopping, including shops, shopping center, market, supermarket and convenience store, night market, and products and souvenirs
- MICE, including meetings, incentive travel, conventions, and exhibitions
- Attractions, including natural sites including beaches, lakes, rivers, reefs, mountains, forests, etc. and cultural sites including ethnic villages, pagodas, temples, museums, archaeological sites, traditional communities, etc.

In addition to tourism business, there are organizations that are established to support the tourism industry in different ways which are tourism promotion and tourism development.

Behind each business, there is an abbreviation of a name of an association(s) that supports different types of businesses in travel and tourism industry in Thailand. Those names with normal letters are national organizations and those with italic letters are international organizations. Full names of all associations are provided in the tables

3. Supported public sectors in tourism industry are institutions that operate in relation to the Thai government structure and policy that do not have direct roles and responsibilities in the tourism industry. The transportation sector is supported by the Ministry of Transport, as well as the Immigration Bureau and the Customs Department. In the meantime, the Ministry of Industry and the Ministry of Commerce provide support to the shopping sector, while the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment and the Ministry of Culture support the attractions sector. In addition, there are other agencies such as banks and financial institutions, the Ministry of Public Health, Royal Thai Police Headquarters, as well as the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Labor, and tourism schools that are important for tourism personnel development.

The following table presents full names of all organizations both public and private that have direct and indirect relationships with the tourism industry, divided by business sectors. Please refer to the mentioned figure XX (tourism value chain in Thailand) for better comprehension of all information.

Mission(s)

To be the centre of coordination in order to assist, cooperate, and exchange ideas between members, and between the private and public sectors.

About / Background

Since the promotion of tourism in 1960, a tour guide has been a career that has grown alongside Thai tourism. Tour guides had had constant meetings and socializing since then until 1975 that the idea of an association for tour guides had been proposed. At an official meeting at Chit Phochana restaurant, many guides at that time had a discussion about the drafting of principles and regulations for the establishment of a professional guide association. Afterwards, about 50 members were gathered and prepared for the establishment of an association with the primary objective of maintaining benefits for members. Then, a draft statute or association regulation was prepared to apply for registration with the Public Security Department, the Police Department and the Cultural Division, Department of Religious Affairs, the Ministry of Education, therefore a "Professional Tourist Guides Association" was established in all respects on the law on July 29, 1975.

The first election of the Association's Executive Committee was held at the Royal Rattanakosin Hotel, with 132 members in attendance.

Since the association was founded and registered under the name " Professional Tourist Guides Association", there was always an attempt for a period of 34 years to change the name by adding "of Thailand" to be the "Professional Tourist Guide Association of Thailand" but had not been successful. ## Mission(s)

BAT's missions are to promote coffee-making among interested members of the public and to help raise, as well as set, higher standards for the 'barista' profession. BAT also focuses on developing the skills of Thai baristas for international competitions while acting as a meeting point for members to exchange their knowledge and experience, and performing the role of a coordinator for all related international organizations.

About / Background

The inception of the Barista Association of Thailand (BAT) was brought on by a group of professional baristas and barista trainers who wish to disseminate the understanding and the knowledge about barista to a wider group of people, and to develop the skills of Thai baristas to meet international standards. With coffee business flourished extensively during the past 4-5 years, the demand for baristas has also been on a rise.

Accordingly, there has been an agreement among professional baristas and barista trainers that Thailand is now in need of a central body to help further develop the skills of local baristas to meet internationally-recognized standards. Initially, the group had an intention to join the Specialty Coffee Association of Thailand (SCAT). However, due to some unexplainable delays and limitations, the SCAT establishment is never completed until today.

At the beginning of 2005, a group of professional baristas and barista trainers reached a preliminary conclusion on their readiness to set up a club or even an association, to carry out their agreed-upon mission without waiting for SCAT. In several meetings that followed, ideas and suggestions have been made among group members before an agreement was made to form an association, which can collaborate with both government agencies and international bodies more effectively, and better express the group's determination and adherence to transparency of its works.

Objective(s)

1. To disseminate knowledge and promote coffee-making among the public
2. To raise and set standards for barista profession
3. To develop skills of profession baristas for national and international competitions
4. To be the meeting point for members to exchange their knowledge and experience

Through Conservation Action: WCS will help to conserve ecologically intact wild places in 15 priority terrestrial and marine regions and their wildlife, and reverse the decline of six priority groups of species across their range— elephants, apes, big cats, sharks & rays, whales & dolphins, and tortoises & freshwater turtles. We will also help maintain viable populations of critically endangered species in our zoos and aquarium.

Inspire

Through Engagement and Education: WCS will activate a conservation movement of a diverse, influential and enduring global audience that is invested and empowered to protect wild nature, using the powerful experiences at our zoos and aquarium; enduring impact of our education programs; and the great reach of digital tools.

The partners of this strategy including government agencies, educational institutions, private organizations, and international organizations.

Product and Market Strategy

In the 4.0 era, the customer segment of tourists by regions or countries is insufficient to meet changing needs of tourists that have become more personalized, especially the Free Individual Travelers (FIT) customers that prefer to travel independently and use online platforms for searching information, booking, and transactions. FIT customers have increased continuously and usually compare data before making reservation for accommodation and travel packages, therefore have higher expectations for the quality of service.

TCT has designed product and market strategy to promote the readiness of tourism supply (products and services) in tourism operators in Thailand so that they can penetrate the niche market with the concerns on uniqueness, standards, safety, and sustainability following the 5S strategy that consists of Segmented & Fragmented Market, Signature Product, Safety, Standard Product & Service, and Sustainable Tourism.

Platform and Innovation Strategy

Disruptive innovation has changed the behavior of tourists, from awareness, attraction, search, booking, to advocating. Besides, the expectations of customers to products and services are higher, which technologies and innovations will help increase efficiency and competitiveness, from attracting attention, storytelling, closing sale, to customer service, as well as reduce the cost of management effectively. However, most of Thai tourism operators, especially small and medium-sized entrepreneurs and communities, still lack readiness for innovation due to the insufficiency of knowledge and funds which deplete competitive opportunities and new marketing channels, and assume higher costs than competitors.

Therefore, the Smart Tourism Subcommittee of TCT has an important mission regarding the SMART strategy as follows: Service and Product Innovation, Marketing Innovation, AI and Big Data Analysis, Research and Development, and Transformation and Process Innovation.

Policy and Legal Enforcement Strategy

- Giving members and tour operators the opportunity to present problems, obstacles, and recommendations for drafting policy and action plan, and proposing appropriate legal proposals to the government sector
- Encouraging the public and private sectors to modernize laws and regulations to the current competitive environment
- Promoting more effective law and regulations enforcement to reduce problems and inequality, as well as to prevent the exploitation of tourists which is a major problem affecting the image of Thai tourism
- Driving and controlling members and tourism operators to operate business with transparency, integrity, principles of good governance, and legally through the Ethics Committee of TCT

* Information collected from January to June 2019

The above table shows information of inbound tourism situation in Thailand throughout six years (2014-2019). The numbers of arrivals and tourism receipts decrease in 2014 due to the political instability of the country (coup d'etat), and increase rapidly after the recovery of the situation from 2014 to 2015 (growth rate +20.61 and +24.25), then continue rising steadily from 2015 to 2019. Although the numbers of arrivals and tourism receipts in 2018 to 2019 are increasing, but the growth rate has slow downed in 2018-2019 from the previous years (2017-2016). In the meantime, the average length of stay fluctuates during the first three years (2014-2016) and drops constantly in the last three years (2016-2019). In addition, expenditure per capita per day increases constantly during 2014-2017, then decreases since 2018. The expenditure per capita per day in 2018 decreases due to the decline of Chinese tourists, the solidification of Thai Baht, and the economic situation in the Middle East. Therefore, the expenditure per capita per trip also increases constantly during 2014-2017 and decreases from 2018 to 2019, which is due to the decline of the average length of stay and the expenditure per capita per day in the same years.

The top 10 key inbound markets (numbers of tourists) have changed during the last six years, especially at rank number 6 to 10. Countries appeared on the list in the earlier years (i.e. Australia and UK) have been less recognized as key markets during the later years, while other countries (i.e. India and Vietnam) have constantly grown to be the key markets of Thailand, especially India that has grown significantly in 2017-2019 (growth rate +19.01, +21.94, and +24.88 respectively), with the rank number 3 in 2019. The growth of less recognized markets is due to the development of tourism infrastructure such the increase of flights and the new regulations of visa (Visa on Arrival for 21 countries, including China and India, start in the end of 2018). Meanwhile, China and Malaysia rank as the first and second key markets throughout the six years, with the substantial growth in 2015 (+72.31 for China and +30.87 for Malaysia). Number of tourists from South Korea increases from 2014 to 2015 and has maintained its rank (third place) during 2015-2018. In the meantime, Number of tourists from Russia decreases significantly in 2015 (-45.06) and has risen again, with the slowdown of growth rate, from 2016 to 2019. Japan have maintained its rank at fourth place until 2017 that the country's rank declines to fifth place and to sixth place in 2019, although its growth rate has risen from 2017 to 2019. On the contrary, USA has entered the top 10 numbers of tourists rank in 2015 and has maintained the development of its ranking to eighth place in 2019. Laos and Singapore have maintained to be in top 10 throughout six years with slight decrease of growth rate in 2018, then the growth rate of Laos increases while of Singapore decreases in 2019.

China is not only the first key market in numbers of tourists, but also the first in tourism receipts with the substantial growth in 2015 (+93.71). However, the growth rate of tourism receipts from China has slow down since 2016 and risen again in 2019. Malaysia and Russia alternate in the second and third place in tourism receipts with the fluctuation of growth rate throughout six years. This shows that although the number of tourists from Russia fluctuates during the last five years and tourism receipts decrease substantially in 2015, it is still a key market in tourism receipts. Australia, UK, and USA are not significant in terms of numbers of tourists since they rank at the bottom or below the top 10 of numbers of tourists, but these markets are significant in terms of tourism receipts during the last six years. However, the receipts from Australia and UK have decreased since 2018. Japan ranks steadily in tourist numbers and receipts and has a positive growth in 2018-2019. Meanwhile, India market has increased significantly in both tourist numbers and receipts with the decline of receipts in 2016 and constant growth during 2017-2019, while Laos has been a key market in numbers of tourists and has grown substantially in tourism receipts since 2017 (+33.59). However, countries which are not in top 10 in numbers of tourists including France and Germany has maintained the places at the bottom of top 10 (eighth to tenth place) in tourism receipts during 2014-2018 and disappeared from the rank in 2019.

The tourists feature has shown that the percentage of male tourists has constantly declined while the percentage of female tourists has gradually risen during the last six years, both shares the percentage about 50-50. The percentage of revisit travelers is about two-third of the numbers of visitors during the last six years, while the percentage first visit visitors remain about one-third. Interestingly, the percentage of first-time visitors has increased from 2014 to 2015 and constantly dropped during 2015-2019, while the percentage of revisit visitors has decreased between 2014 and 2015 and gradually rises in 2015-2019. Furthermore, the percentage of tourists travel with package tours covers about a quarter of the total numbers of tourists and has dropped steadily since 2015 then increases in 2019. On the contrary, the percentage of tourists travel without package tours (self-arranged tour) covers about three-quarter of the total numbers and has increased gradually since 2015 then decreases in 2019. In addition, the main age group of visitors is between 25 to 34 years old, with a slight decrease of the numbers during 2016-2018 and the increase in 2019. In the meantime, the age group of 65 years old and over remains the lowest percentage, but with the constant growth over six years and the significant growth from 2017 to 2018. The other age groups (under 25, 35 to 44, 45 to 54, and 55 to 64) have fluctuated growth rates throughout the last six years.

The table above shows information of domestic tourism situation in Thailand throughout six years (2014-2019). The numbers of tourists and tourism receipts increase significantly from 2014 to 2015 (growth rate +10.24 and +15.02), then continue rising steadily from 2015 to 2018 and the number of tourists drops in 2019 (-0.06) while the receipts still increase with the slowdown of growth rate. Although the numbers of arrivals and tourism receipts in 2018 is increasing, but the growth rates of 2018 slowdown from the previous years (2017-2016). The average length of stay fluctuates during six years with the decline from 2014 to 2017 and increase in 2017-2018, then decline again in 2019. Meanwhile, the expenditure per capita of domestic tourists fluctuates during the last five years with the highest expenditure in 2017 (3,645 THB).

The travel feature has shown that the percentage of tourists travel on one-day trip is less than those travel overnight trip.

The data on travel arrangement shows that about 90% of people self-arrange their trips and only 10% travel with tour operators or agencies. Besides, the percentage of tourists with tour operators or agencies has declines to only 1% since 2018.

The majority of domestic tourists use private car as a mean of transportation.

Before getting to the data on domestic tourism features and behaviors, the method using for calculating the percentage of data in the table below needs to be explained. The method and result using for data during 2014-2016 and from 2017 to 2018 are different. The data during 2014-2016 is calculated using simple percentage, when the data from 2017-2018 is calculated using percentage with multiple choice answers. Firstly, the main purposes of travel in domestic tourists during 2014-2016 are visiting family and friends, recreation, and pilgrimage respectively, then followed by gastronomy, shopping and meeting/convention. Although visiting family and friends is the first purpose of travel, the percentage of this purpose has declined over the last four years (2014-2017) and has risen again in 2018. Recreation is the second purpose of travel until 2016, and then has increased its popularity from 2017 to 2018. However, the percentage of this information yield.

* Information collected from January to August 2019

The table shows information of Top 10 most visited destinations and destination receipts of Thailand over six years (2014-2019). The top 4 of most visited destination for inbound tourists have barely changed during five years (2014-2018), but Chiang Mai has dropped its ranking to seventh place (from fourth place) in 2019. Destination ranks number 5 to 10 have slight changes as Trat is no longer in top 10 in 2016 and 2018-2019, as well as Phang-Nga, although Phang-Nga appears on the list again in 2019. Interestingly, top 10 destinations of domestic tourists are not significantly different from inbound tourists, as about 80-90% of the popular destinations (i.e. Bangkok, Phuket, Chon Buri, Krabi, Chiang Mai, Surat Thani, Songkhla, Phang-nga, Prachuap Khiri Khan) of both domestic and inbound tourists are the same cities. The different are destinations at the bottom of the list i.e. Rayong, that maintains its popularity among domestic visitors during the last six years, and upcoming destinations i.e. Kanchanaburi, Nakhonrachasrima, and Phetchaburi, that have appeared on the top 10 of domestic tourists since 2018. In addition, the destination that has gotten more popular among both domestic and inbound visitors is Phra Nakhon Si Ayutthaya, as it has entered the top 10 since 2017-2018.

The top 10 most visited destinations of both domestic and inbound tourists (Total) shows that the key destinations of both markets are not significantly different. However, some destinations such as Nakhonrachasrima and Phetchaburi that are in top 10 of domestic tourists are more influential on total top 10 due to its greater numbers of domestic visitors.

Top 10 destination receipts of inbound tourists have not changed in the last six years. In the meantime, there are slight changes in the top 10 destination receipts of domestic tourists, as Chiang Rai has been less recognized since 2016 and Kanchanaburi has gotten more popular since 2015. The table presents that some destinations such as Chiang Mai has been more recognized in domestic (second place) than inbound (seventh place) markets regarding tourism receipts. On the contrary, Surat Thani has been more recognized in inbound (fourth place) than domestic (not in top 10) markets. The top 10 destination receipts of domestic and inbound tourists show slight changes of destinations throughout six years and both markets have comparable influence on the destination receipts.

Year of establishment

About / Background

The domestic elephant is important and relevant to the Thai history, traditions, art and culture, economy, society, and politics for a long time that it has become the national symbol of Thailand. In 2009, there are about 3,101 domestic elephants in Thailand and up to 95% of them are under the management of the private sector. Besides, around 1,500 domestic elephants are hosted in about 80 elephant camps for tourism scattered over the country. However, there is no standard for the elephant camp business which results into health and welfare problems of the elephants, as well as stray elephants (the owner or mahout using an elephant to earn money in the city).

To develop a sustainable standard for this business, the Department of Tourism (formerly known as the Office of Tourism Development), a government agency that aims to develop standards and quality for tourism services and tourist attractions has implemented the Elephant Camp Activities for Tourism Standard responding to ecotourism concept, elevating the tourism activities standard, supporting Thailand as a quality and standardized with international recognized standards destination, and providing proper care to the elephants.

In this regard, the Office of Tourism Development (or presently, Department of Tourism - DOT), the Ministry of Tourism and Sports has assigned the Thailand Institute of Scientific and Technological Research (TISTR) to implement "Standard development project for ecotourism activities: Elephant Camp Activities for Tourism Standard "under the agreement No. 5/2009 dated March 30, 2009.

Objective(s)

1. To establish the standard of elephant camp activities for tourism that is compatible with the international recognized standards

2. To create guidelines of elephant camp activities for tourism to meet the set standards
